

Business-Education Work Ethic Program

The Franklin County Chamber of Commerce believes that there is a direct relationship between the work ethic that young people display in school and their future success. By striving to instill a positive work ethic in our students, we will help ensure their futures as responsible, productive members of the community.

Because the Frankfort Chamber recognizes the value of a strong work ethic, it will present a special Work Ethic Award to students who meet the high standards defined in the criteria. This special award will validate students who earn the credential as prime candidates for employment and/or postsecondary education.

The Work Ethic Program was formed by the Workforce Development Committee in partnership with Allegra Management Consulting, Capital Community Economic/Industrial Development Authority, Frankfort Chamber of Commerce, Franklin County Public Schools, Junior Achievement, and Kentucky State University, to bridge the gap between the business community and schools. Throughout the year area schools and business leaders will organize classes, provide volunteers and work together to benefit the students of Frankfort and Franklin County. The bond that forms between the school and their business partners will last a lifetime. Everyone wins with the Business-Education Work Ethic Program, including the school faculty and staff, the students, and the businesses.
